"Wisconsin's Glacial Landscapes: Focus on the Dells"

In conjunction with the state-wide Wisconsin Science Festival, the Kilbourn Public Library and the Dells Country Historical Society are proud to be hosting UW-Madison Professor David Mickelson at 7:00 pm on Thursday, November 2. Professor Mickelson will be giving his talk "Wisconsin's Glacial Landscapes: Focus on the Dells" which will explain how the landscape of Wisconsin came to be what it is today. The last glaciation was responsible for many of the glacial landforms we see today, including the Dells of the Wisconsin River. David Mickelson is Emeritus Professor of Geoscience, Geological Engineering and Water Resources Management at UW-Madison. There will be time included for questions and discussion. Refreshments will be served.

The Wisconsin Science Festival is a state-wide celebration of science, featuring events across the state for people of all ages. These events include hands-on science exhibitions, demonstrations, performances, tours, pub nights, workshops and more. The festival runs from November 2 to November 5. Library Book Club - Go Big Read

Hillbilly Elegy is the 2017-18 selection for Go Big Read, UW-Madison's common reading program. It is also the November book selection for the Kilbourn Public Library Book Discussion. Written by J.D. Vance, Hillbilly Elegy offers a broad look at the poor white working class in a small Appalachian town. The author draws upon his own life experiences to help paint a picture of a working class that has lost faith in upward social mobility. It is an illuminating memoir and work of social history that is sure to spur an engaging discussion. We will be discussing this book on Monday, November 27 at 6:30 pm and on Wednesday, November 29 at 1:30 pm. Both discussions will be held at the library. Copies of the book are available at the library and on the bookmobile. Everyone is welcome. If you cannot make it to the meeting in person you are welcome to participate in the online discussion at kplbookclub.blogspot.com. The University of Wisconsin-Madison's Go Big Read Program is designed to engage members of the campus community and beyond in an academically focused reading experience.
